

Project up in lights

The new Clinical Services Building (CSB) is well and truly on track for completion later this year, with the Lower Ground, Ground and Level One floors all undergoing their initial builders clean.

On Thursday 22 July installation of the Goulburn Base Hospital sky sign commenced, with the contractors braving the icy conditions to mark the exciting milestone for the project.

On Wednesday 28 July the Coreten steel art piece was installed outside the main entrance, providing a striking motif designed by local Aboriginal school children, for hospital users to enjoy.

On Friday 30 July an enthusiastic group of volunteers from the Goulburn Rose Society, students from Goulburn High School and the redevelopment project team put their green thumbs to work in the winter sunshine and began to preserve and relocate approximately 30 memorial roses.

Rose relocation will continue over the coming weeks. The roses will be replanted onsite in the front semi-circle garden and will remain a key feature of Goulburn Base Hospital, complementing the hospital garden's design.

The emergency department carpark, main entrance and central courtyard will also continue to take shape as we approach completion.

Next steps

In parallel with the completion of the physical construction of the building, as well as landscaping and carpark works, the new building will undergo a detailed commissioning process which tests the building and services prior to use.

The transition into the new facility is being carefully planned and staged to minimise disruptions to patients and services.

Staff tours and training sessions will be organised to ensure staff are ready to work in their new environment. All activities will continue to be managed in accordance with the latest COVID-19 Public Health Order.

We appreciate your patience and understanding during this busy yet exciting time for the Goulburn Health Service.

Tablelands General Manager Brian Bonham and Senior Project Director Deirdre Barnes say a few words to the volunteers before the rose relocation work begins.

The Principal Contractor for the redevelopment continues to follow the public health advice and implement workplace policies and procedures to manage COVID-19 in accordance with Public Health Orders.
