

It's the final countdown

With just six months to go until main works for the Goulburn Hospital and Health Service Redevelopment project is scheduled for completion, it's full steam ahead with the structural steel now completed and roof sheeting almost done.

Vinyl installation is underway and fit-out works are progressing. The plant room is also in its final stages, with early commissioning and equipment testing beginning later this month.

The façade — a combination of porcelain tiles, cement and metal cladding — is becoming more visible across the face of the building as the scaffolding continues to come down.

Example hospital signage presented to the team.

Cranium, the Redevelopment's 40 metre tower crane, was dismantled in late March and transported from the site. This marked another milestone for the project.

The project team has also been busy showcasing the new one and two bed display rooms to staff user groups and the SNSWLHD Board.

The display rooms are equipped with ensuites, new fixtures and new equipment.

Department tours coming soon!

Tours of the display rooms will be available in the coming months. Contact the team to register your interest:

E: SNSWLHD-GoulburnHospital-Redevelopment@health.nsw.gov.au

T: 1800 325 159

Aerial shot of the new facility from Goldsmith Street, taken March 2021.

The SNSWLHD Board and CE tour the two bed display room.

The SNSWLHD Board and CE tour the new building.

The Asset team inspects the display room with a fine-tooth comb.

The project team and Goulburn staff weigh in on wayfinding.

Aerial shot of the new facility from Goldsmith Street, taken March 2021.

Aerial shot of the new facility from Faithfull Street, taken March 2021.

